

NOTES FROM THE PRESIDENT

Distinguished Librarian Rank

The Board of Trustees recently approved the rank of Distinguished Librarian at their October 18, 1995 meeting. This confirmation allows for the new rank to be filed with the New York State Secretary of State to finalize the rule making. Since SUNY is the first institution to create such an academic rank for librarians, it is fitting to acknowledge the significance of this proposal for fostering the full potential of faculty status for librarians and to recognize the contributions of those in SUNY who made this possible.

This process grew from a suggestion made several years ago at a plenary session of the University Faculty Senate that there might be a rank for librarians comparable to the Distinguished Professor rank. Peter Olevnik, a member of the University Faculty Senate Programs and Awards Committee in July 1992, recommended the possibility of such a rank and was delegated the responsibility for establishing its criteria. Later that year, he chaired an Ad hoc committee of librarians to answer this charge. The committee was composed of Judith Adams, University at Buffalo; Sharon Bonk, Albany; Eleanor Carter, Cobleskill; Tim Hartnett, Plattsburgh; Suzanne Murray, HSC at Syracuse; and Nancy Osborne, Oswego.

The Distinguished Librarian rank proposal drafted by the Ad hoc committee was formally endorsed in February 1993 by SUNYLA and the SUNY Council of Library Directors. The proposal was then reviewed and accepted by the University Faculty Senate's Programs and Awards Committee. The Awards Committee drafted a resolution for the Distinguished Librarian rank which was unanimously passed by the University Faculty Senate at their April 1993 spring meeting. Consultation was then sought from campus academic vice presidents and the Association of College and Research Libraries.

Then Chancellor Johnstone created a consulting group to review the proposal. Headed by Richard Jarvis, Vice Provost for Academic Programs and Research, the group was composed of academic vice presidents, two librarians (Judith Adams, University at Buffalo and Susan Besemer, Fredonia) and an outside consultant (Thomas Kirk, President of ACRL at the time). According to Jarvis, the revisions consisted of changes in the evaluation process and not in the criteria. In October 1994 the Academic Planning Committee of the Board of Trustees approved the Distinguished Librarian rank. Their resolution in support of the proposal was passed by the Board of Trustees at the Board's November 15, 1994 meeting.

Because the adoption of a Distinguished Librarian rank would involve amending the Policies of the Board of Trustees, it was necessary for a Notice of Proposed Rule Making to be filed with the Secretary of State. This Notice allowed a period of 45 days during which comments, could be made about the Board's decision. After considering these comments, the Board of Trustees would then make a final decision about the proposed rank. Because of a moratorium placed on new regulations by the Governor in January 1995, the Board was unable to complete action on the Distinguished Librarian rank at that time. Information from Linda Scatton (Office of Graduate Studies) in early October 1995 indicated that the moratorium had expired and had not yet been reinstated. The proposal was then placed on the agenda of the Board of Trustees' October 18, 1995 session. Finally, the Distinguished Librarian rank became a reality due to the hard work of many individuals throughout SUNY.

Notes from December 1, 1995 Executive Board/Council Meeting -- Review of Draft Constitution and Bylaws

The strategy adopted was to continue the review with Article V of the Constitution (the stopping point at the September meeting). A review of the Constitution was completed. The major change to this draft was to re-instate Article IX, Section 3 regarding local SUNYLA chapters. The discussion continued with the Bylaws up to Article II, Section B.1 (line 54) where it will continue at the March meeting. No changes were adopted for this part or the Bylaws.

After the reviews of both the draft Constitution and Bylaws are completed, the Council will go back and revisit any section of either the Constitution or Bylaws that may be brought to the floor by a Council member. For example, a motion could be made to revise wording of any article or section that had been adopted at an earlier meeting. This type of motion, outlined in Roberts Rules, can be adopted by a two-thirds vote.

Investigation is underway to identify a method for making the drafts available electronically. Currently, they are in a word processing format that contain special characters which do not translate legibly for gopher or e-mail. However, each campus delegate has a current draft version of the Bylaws. Updated versions of the Constitution will also be made available as well.

Please contact me if you have any questions about this process.

GUIDE TO HISTORICAL SOURCES OF INFORMATION ABOUT THE UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY, 1884-

Have you ever wondered when the University at Albany was founded? What the first class was like and what careers they pursued? How the mission and curriculum of the school changed over the past 150 years? The University Libraries, University at Albany, State University of New York, are pleased to announce the publication of the Guide to

Historical Sources of Information about the University at Albany, 1844-.

The Guide was commissioned by the Friends of the Libraries as part of the University at Albany's sesquicentennial celebration and was intended to serve two purposes: to contribute to the sesquicentennial celebration of the unique and interesting history of the University at Albany and its predecessor institutions, and to create a lasting document to help researchers make use of the University's recorded past.

Since the University Archives holds most official records and published sources relating to the history of the University, a large portion of the descriptions in this Guide are of materials held in the University Archives. This heavily annotated Guide includes material under the following headings: histories of the University, Archives' guides and databases, official publications and reports, student and alumni publications, New York State documents, and guides to published literature about education history. There is an index to the sources listed.

Copies of the Guide to Sources of Information about the History of the University at Albany, 1844- are available from: Dorothy Christiansen, Liaison, Friends of the Libraries, University Library B48, University at Albany, SUNY, 12222. The cost (including shipping and handling) is $7.00 prepaid to University at Albany, Account Number 900408.

In this paper, Ms. von Wahlde reported on the activities and progress of a SUNY University Centers research project that was funded by the Council on Library Resources and the SUNY Office of Educational Technology. The study uses a theoretical economic model to determine cost savings, financial efficiency, and economic efficiency of local ownership with document delivery via a consortium of SUNY University Center Libraries or commercial supply/delivery services. As part of the study, ILL patrons who requested articles from science and math journals were queried about the timeliness of the service, the quality of the service, and the value of their time spent waiting for the articles to be delivered. Information on the journal price, frequency of requests for the journal, cost of delivery, and time and method of delivery was also recorded.

Ms. von Wahlde participated in the "University Libraries and Other Research Libraries" section of the conference which serves as an international forum for all concerned with university and research libraries.
