

Why a SUNY-wide Library Management System?

Maureen Zajkowski, Project Manager
SUNYConnect Library Management System, OLIS

The SUNY community includes 71 libraries on 64 campuses. Currently 10 different library management systems (LMS) are implemented across SUNY. Many of these LMS applications are considered legacy systems with short life expectancies. There is a real need for the majority of libraries within SUNY to migrate to a new LMS.

Cooperative initiatives, such as the Library Automation Implementation Program (LAIP) and joint database selection of centrally subsidized electronic resources, have demonstrated that SUNY libraries of differing missions, needs and sizes can successfully work together. The significant benefits of these experiences have resulted in the SUNY Council of Library Directors' endorsement of the implementation of a core library management system and its integration with technology based resources and services. Consequently, the common library management system becomes the cornerstone of the SUNYConnect initiative to create a virtual library for the State University of New York.

Why Ex Libris?

An analysis of functionality, system capabilities, cost, and vendor viability concluded that Ex Libris and the ALEPH500 system significantly surpassed the other finalists by demonstrating essential library functions, required networked system capabilities, excellent responsiveness to customers' needs, and highly developed consortium components.

ALEPH500 is a full-featured system that has all standard modules in production. Based on current client/server architecture built on an Oracle database, ALEPH can be easily customized. Patron empowerment features are available such as the ability for patrons to renew items online, check for holds and fines, submit Interlibrary loan requests, and check their own addresses and email information with a library-defined option to update or edit the displayed information. Multi-lingual support for over 17 languages enables patrons to select the language interface of the OPAC. Great flexibility is allowed in the design and content of the OPAC screens. The Ex Libris web page (<http://www.exlibris-usa.com>) provides links to ALEPH customer sites. A review of customer OPACs will demonstrate how various libraries have chosen to design their web-based catalogs.

Support for consortia is a solid strength of ALEPH. The system provides multiple options for configuring local control of library data within a shared environment.

Flexible union catalog capabilities support multiple design options with links to holdings at individual libraries. Authority records can be shared across databases and one database can be linked to multiple authority files. ALEPH supports real-time non-mediated circulation requests within a consortial environment. Patron records are designed to support both global (or consortial) privileges as well as local campus privileges.

What's Next?

The contract negotiation process is now underway. Key areas of discussion include multiple options for maintenance and support; performance based payment schedule; acceptance testing for functionality, system scalability, site database/indexing for each participating library; and issues associated with ongoing enhancement requests. Final approval of the contract, by the Office of the State Comptroller, is expected by Spring 2000. SUNY will begin working with Ex Libris on the implementation process upon final contract approval.

The SUNYConnect LMS Planning Team has been developing recommendations that will be presented to the SUNYConnect Advisory Council (previously LASG). The focus of the Team's work includes:

- deployment issues related to the number and configuration of server host sites
- criteria for selection of hosts, nodes and possible stand-alone sites
- criteria and standards that would become the basis for a Participation Agreement appropriate to the level at which a campus takes part
- recommendations related to network standards for campus and wide-area network delivery for the SUNYConnect LMS
- service level requirements for server host sites.

The policy recommendations made by the LMS Planning Team, with approval by the SUNYConnect Advisory Council (SAC), are critical for the ALEPH implementation and governance process. SAC will decide how these recommendations will determine practical considerations such as what campuses will be server host sites, where they will be located, and the order of campus migrations. Once these pieces are in place, planning can begin in earnest for addressing the multitude of implementation issues.

Cooperative partnerships between the SUNY library community and the Office of Library and Information Services (OLIS) are the foundation for the successful deployment of SUNY-wide efforts. This need will continue and intensify as the migration to ALEPH gets underway.

Want more information?

It is anticipated that regional demonstrations of the ALEPH software will be scheduled across New York State for next year, perhaps in March and April. The presentations will be full day sessions that will provide overviews of each ALEPH module by Ex Libris staff. The following URLs provide ongoing information on the SUNYConnect LMS:

The Membership Development Committee (MDC) appreciates the diligent work of our delegates. They are responsible for recruitment and the enlightenment of their colleagues to the exciting times the Association is having.

The Membership Development Committee is pleased to announce that we have 335 members to date. Of these 24 are first time members!!

One of our main goals is to increase membership to 500 and hope to celebrate that achievement at our SUNYLA 2000 Conference: "Looking Back, Looking Forward: Bridging the Millennia". Everyone plays an important part in achieving this commendable goal. So, if you have a new staff member, if you know of someone who has not yet renewed, do a little gentle prodding. Countdown on 165 needed members has just begun!!!

There are several opportunities that abound for all members, and new members might especially want to become involved in Special Interest Groups (SIGs) like Archives and Special Collections or Acquisitions/Collection Development; or find out more about the Association and its goals by joining one of our standing committees, e.g., Automation and Information Technologies, Personnel Policies or Professional Development. A quick way to see just what we've been up to is to visit our rather excellent homepage at: <http://www.albany.edu/library/sunyla/> or ask your delegate for a copy of our new SUNYLA brochure: LIBRARIANS OF THE 21ST CENTURY.

At the annual conference in June, the MDC is co-sponsoring a "NEW MEMBERS COCKTAIL PARTY". We're hoping we see many new and "old" faces as we begin the activities for our last conference of the century. If you'd like to become involved in the planning, please contact Deborah Curry, dcurry@oswego.edu. The MDC is planning quite a few surprises for the conference...this is one you really don't want to miss!! So become involved. Encourage someone to join, jump on a committee, a SIG meet new people, learn about SUNYLA and have a bit of fun in the process!!!!

Deborah A. Curry, for the MDC

Two pieces written by reference librarian Suzanne Delman were published recently by Jewish Currents Magazine: "Fish Tale," a short story and "Ode to a Matzoh Ball," an essay.

Other:

Inspired by an article in the Fall 1999 LOEX News, reference librarians at ACC offered individualized reference appointments to students from Nov. 16 to Dec. 3, a peak time for student research papers. Five ACC librarians participated, each available for a few hours per week for hour-long sessions. Students signed up for certain time slots at the circulation desk, filling out a sheet with a description of the research help needed and submitting a copy of the assignment. After the sessions, students completed evaluations of the service. Feedback has been very favorable: the students appreciated the in-depth, uninterrupted assistance, were able to learn exactly what they needed and were less hesitant to ask questions afterwards. The service will most likely be offered again towards the end of the Spring 2000 semester. For more information on how this service was offered, contact Reference and Instruction Librarian Joyce Miller.

We have settled down in our Temporary Library while our present facility is renovated and expanded. The Temporary Library is a wonderful new building with lots of glass and beautiful views of the campus. We expect to be in our new library sometime in 2002.

Libraries Do Indeed Save Lives.....

In a scientific study, 98% of the 109 participating community and long term care professionals reported that information provided by their medical librarian contributed to better informed clinical decisions. 12 community care programs in the Rochester, NY area took part in the study. Participants included nurses, physicians, social workers, administrators and allied health professionals. When information was provided by the medical librarian:

84% of health professionals reported it improved the quality of life of the patient
 70% reported they changed the advice given to the patient or family members
 69% reported an improvement in the quality of life of the family
 60% reported they were able to avoid inappropriate care or treatment
 44% were able to avoid unnecessary costs
 20% were able to avoid patient mortality

Overall, information provided by the librarian was rated of higher importance than other information sources such as medical tests or colleagues. For more information, contact Bernie Todd Smith, at ViaHealth Rochester General Hospital (716)338-4045 bsmith@rghnet.edu

Library Instruction Committee Distance Education Subcommittee

by
Deborah Bernnard

Members of the Distance Education Subcommittee are Deborah Bernnard (University at Albany),
Robert Matthews (Hudson Valley CC),

Maureen Lindstrom (Buffalo), Holly Heller-Ross (Plattsburgh) and Mary Andolina (Fulton Montgomery Community College). Criteria for membership is simply an interest in the phenomenon of distance education. Since we are all teaching librarians we were, and are, interested specifically in the provision of information literacy at a distance.

Our first project reflected both our interest in, and our frustrations with, providing information literacy to students who do not have easy access to their campus libraries. Lots of publicity was being generated about distance education programs, but few of these programs explained how and to what extent libraries were involved. The July 1998 adoption of the ACRL guidelines for distance learning library services also helped to pique our interest in the ways in which SUNY libraries and librarians were coping with this fast emerging facet of higher education. The guidelines state (among other things) that: "Members of the distance learning community are entitled to library services and resources equivalent to those provided for students and faculty in traditional campus settings" and that "The originating institution is responsible, through its chief administrative officers and governance organizations, for funding and appropriately meeting the information needs of its distance learning programs in support of their teaching learning and research" (www.ala.org/acrl/guides/distlrng.html).

The committee decided to survey the SUNY campus libraries to determine their level of involvement in distance learning initiatives put forth by their campuses. In creating and disseminating the survey we increased our familiarity with distance education processes. Most of our communication as a committee was accomplished remotely by email. We also mounted the survey on a distance education software program called Top Class. We experienced frustrations with both our communication method and with the distance education software. One of our survey conclusions reflects these frustrations; in it we recommend that SUNY librarians work more closely with computer technologists in order to become more proficient in using technology to deliver library services to distance education students.

Responses to our survey were meager, 24 campuses out of 64 replied. Although this response makes our results far from scientific, we felt that we could spot a general trend from this number. Our major conclusion was that SUNY librarians are generally not involved in distance education initiatives. However, it is important to remember that this reflects a snapshot in time. The survey was sent in Fall 1998. Our conclusions might be different were we to send the same survey today. The survey is titled Survey of SUNY libraries and their involvement with Distance Education. Its results and conclusions can be found on the SUNYLA Library Instruction Web Page at <http://library.lib.binghamton.edu/sunyla/survey.html>.

For our next project, we would like to build upon our survey conclusions by helping SUNY librarians with distance learning initiatives. Some of our ideas are to provide a clearinghouse for information on distance learning tools and/or to provide a bibliography of reviews on distance learning software. Anyone who would like to help is encouraged to do so. Please contact Deborah Bernnard at Bernnard@cnsvox.albany.edu or Nancy Cannon at: Cannonns@oneonta.edu.

"Looking Back, Looking Forward: Bridging the Millennia"

THE SUNYLA 2000 CONFERENCE

The Year 2000 SUNYLA Conference promises to be the biggest and best ever! June 21 - June 23, 2000 are the dates to mark in your calendar, as SUNY Brockport promises to host the most exciting (and possibly most mysterious?) conference in SUNYLA history.

"Looking Back, Looking Forward: Bridging the Millennia" is our conference theme. This will give us a chance to reminisce a bit about the earlier days of librarianship and the history of SUNYLA, while keeping an eye on the exciting new developments of the present and maybe even trying to peek into the future. There will be something special for new members, to honor those who have joined SUNYLA recently and give us a chance to get to know each other. Since our goal is to reach 500 members this year, keep those new memberships coming in!

The Program Committee and the Local Arrangements Committee are hard at work planning the best conference SUNYLA has ever had. And we welcome suggestions, so please forward your ideas to Debby Emerson (demerson@monroecc.edu) or Julie Wash (jwash@brockport.edu)!

The Program Planning Committee invites applications for poster sessions at the 32nd Annual SUNYLA Conference, June 21-23, 2000, at SUNY Brockport. Posters may be on any topic addressing the conference theme: Looking Back, Looking Forward: Bridging the Millennia. Please consider sharing information about new and old services, your research projects, working with a diverse clientele, history of libraries and librarianship, the future of libraries... the possibilities are endless! Deadline for poster session application is March 15, 2000. Candidates will be notified by or on April 1.

If you are interested in presenting a poster session, fill out the information below, and send via email, snail mail, or fax to:

Friend of SUNYLA Award

The SUNYLA Professional Development Committee is soliciting nominations for the 2000 Friend of SUNYLA Award. This award is presented to either individuals or organizations making a significant contribution to the furtherance of SUNYLA objectives.

The criteria for the award are as follows:

1. Outstanding leadership qualities and initiative should be exhibited by all nominees in promoting SUNYLA objectives.
2. A SUNYLA member can be considered if service includes holding an office, planning an annual meeting, serving as category representative, or maintaining involvement as a former officer.
3. Library administrators should exhibit open-mindedness and should work closely with librarians. Creativity and initiative in planning are important, as well as the encouragement of SUNYLA objectives.
4. Recipients from the general public should evidence understanding of State University philosophy. Lobbying, public statements, and legislative activity are examples of such efforts.
5. Publishers, vendor, or other commercial organizations are considered, based on outstanding support to SUNYLA programs.

The nominations will be presented to the SUNYLA Executive Board for consideration and selection at the Spring meeting. The presentation of the award will take place at the June 2000 Annual Conference.

Some of the past recipients of the award include Ed Sullivan, Raney Ellis, John Philippo, Eleanor Carter, and Christine Haile.

Please take into account that the Friend of SUNYLA Award Committee may be completely unfamiliar with your nomination(s). Let us know who they are and why you have nominated them.

Send of a copy of your candidate's achievements as they relate to the above criteria, no later than February 25, 2000 to:

Making a Place at the Table

I would like to use my few column inches in this issue to introduce and write in support of a resolution that is very likely to appear on the SUNYLA ballot this coming April. I am referring to an initiative put forth by the SUNYLA Membership Committee chaired by Deborah Curry at SUNY Oswego. This initiative seeks approval of the necessary amendments to the SUNYLA constitution and bylaws that will establish a new SUNYLA "Associate" membership category. This new membership category sets a place at the table for vital constituencies who support our efforts and initiatives.

With the introduction of this proposal, the membership committee has opened the door for us to respond favorably to a number of requests received each year from qualified and knowledgeable individuals who request membership but are unable to join according to current restrictions. The committee has demonstrated to the SUNYLA council that many of these applications are from supporters who would be an asset to our association. In addition, offering a place at the table affords us an opportunity to promote our organization in new ways and become more visible as an important professional development resource for a wider range of supportive library colleagues. This proposal offers us the opportunity to "officially" welcome a new set of qualified and enthusiastic individuals who may include library school students, non-librarian professionals, and retirees among others.

The Associate Membership, as proposed, does not provide full membership benefits. However, associate members may participate and contribute to our committees and special interest groups as well as attend meetings and conferences.

It is my feeling that this proposal is a win-win situation for all. Our organization benefits from an increased membership and participation of an untapped resource of qualified, active supporters. At the same time, we are able to provide a service by reaching out and sharing our vision and expertise with qualified and interested supporters

The committee and its chair have worked hard to promote and present this proposal. I strongly urge you to consider lending your support to an action that will help to infuse new energy and resources into our organization while offering a place at the table for informed, ambitious supporters of our important efforts.
